FAMOUS CROWN JEWELS TO PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN CORONATION

Although the Regalia and Crown Jewels of the British Empire are priceless, their connection with British traditions and sovereignty, which they symbolize, is far more important. Above are the Ampulla or Golden Eagle and the Anointing Spoon. Into the Golden Eagle is poured the holy oil with which the King is anointed at the Coronation. The oil is then poured through the beak into the Anointing Spoon, with which the Archbishop of Canterbury anoints the King on the head, on the breast and on the palms of the hands. The Ampulla is the oldest piece of plate in the Tower and dates back to approximately A.D. 804. The Anointing Spoon is also very ancient, and has been used at the coronation of kings and queens for many centuries.

COUNTRY SWELTERS AS DROUGHT TAKES TOLL IN WEST

While millions in Canada and the United States sought relief from heat and drought from prostration and drowning mounted into hundreds, a blistering sun shone down on scenes of desolation in the drought-stricken regions of the Mid-west. Scenes shown above are typical of farming areas where temperatures of over 100 degrees and more than a month of rainless days have forced over fertile farmlands into waste lands, causing damage estimated in millions. Not a green thing is in sight in the top photograph, taken on a farm near Liberal, Kansas, where grasshoppers and drought have ruined crops. In the scene below, in Ford County, Kansas, a lone cow is shown searching in vain for food in the stubble of a cornfield that has been stripped of vegetation by wind and heat.

PERRY "BLASTS" VON CRAMM OUT OF TITLE

An international match in which England and Germany were represented saw Fred Perry (right) Britain's number one star, literally "blast" Baron von Cramm (left) off the centre court at Wimbledon. Apparently determined to wipe out the defeat suffered at the hands of Von Cramm in the final of the French championships, Perry won as he pleased. Von Cramm suffered from muscle strain in the first set of the match, but experts doubt if it made much difference to the outcome. In their estimation Fred Perry was unshakable.

AT BEAR LAKE

Well, folks, there were some doins' here last Friday evening, when Miss Marion Pratt celebrated her 18th birthday with a party at Elk River Cabin. As I told you last week, Miss Marion Pratt boards with Mrs. T. Spicer and the younger Spicer, at Elk River Cabin. As you know the annual family which christened the cabin have been frequenting it for three years, but their spirit still lingers. "Christened" and "spiced" are a nice choice of words, don't you think? But it's only on rainy days that their faint ghosts haunt the moorland, creeping through an evening of frost.

To revert to the party. It really was a most enjoyable affair, and Mrs. W. C. Pratt, Mrs. Duffy and Mrs. Fink were there to help make things merrier.

May your first "teen year" be the harbinger of a most very happy one, Marion!

The Baptists from districts around about 70 of you, collectively packed up their bundles and on Tuesday and Wednesday returned to their homes. We shall miss their hearty singing.

THE DONKEY

By G. K. Chesterton

When Helen fell and forests washed, And then arose upon them some moment when the moon was shed.

Then surely I was born.

With misty head and sickening cry

And more like great wings.

The donkey's passing party

On all four-footed things.

The tailored outline of the earth

Of ancient cooked will,

Strove, strange, deride me; I am dumb.

I keep my secret still.

For I for I also had my hour:

One far three hour and sweet:

Then shall I love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbour as thyself (Luke 10:27).
